

Nursing Department Course Description

Course Number : (0901321)

Course Name: Adult Health Nursing II (Theory)

Number of credit hours: 3

This course is presented over one semester as part of the Adult Medical-Surgical Nursing course and is intended to follow Adult Medical-Surgical Nursing 1. This course and Adult 1 are designed to introduce the student to nursing care of the adult suffering from the most prevalent acute and chronic medical and surgical disorders, and provide competencies about disease prevention, and restoration/ maintenance of a healthy lifestyle. This course will focus on management of patients with renal problems, management of patients with reproductive health problems, management of patients with endocrine problems, management of patients with nervous system problems and management of patients with musculoskeletal problems. The nursing process provides a framework for selected independent and interdependent nursing intervention.