

Economic Systems and Concepts (110205)(3credit hours)

The course tackles different topics in economics such as, the concept of economics, its goals , economic problems , methods of modern economic systems, consumption theory, savings and investments, unemployment, inflation , financial and monetary policies, banks , external trading, economic development, planning and social integration, in addition to theories of (value, supply and demand, production), markets monopoly, and the monopoly rivalry and distribution from the view point of supply within the market frame work.