

01024234 Twentieth-Century British Literature (3 CHs) (P 01022131)

- Introducing the new culture of modern Britain
- Tracing the echoes of both "the Empire" and "Englishness" in British literature
- Tracing the emergence of a distinctly post-Empire sensibility in contemporary British literature
- Focusing on a variety of texts, verse and prose, to reflect the nostalgia for a more stable past conflicting with a celebration of new modes of identity-formation and new approaches to literary production and presentation
