

5.5 Proportion of Women Receiving Degrees

The total number of graduates from both undergraduate degrees and graduate degrees is 1193 for undergraduate and graduate programs. Under STEM we had sciences, pharmacy, nursing, allied medical sciences, technology, and engineering.

| Criteria                                                                                                           | Number |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------|
| Number of graduates: Total                                                                                  | 1193   |
| Number of graduates by subject area (STEM, Medicine, Arts &amp; Humanities / Social Sciences): Total        | 857    |
| Number of graduates: STEM                                                                                   | 451    |
| Number of graduates: Medicine                                                                               | 0      |
| Number of graduates: Arts &amp; Humanities / Social Sciences                                                | 406    |
| Number of female graduates by subject area (STEM, Medicine, Arts &amp; Humanities / Social Sciences): Total | 639    |
| Number of female graduates: STEM                                                                            | 301    |
| Number of female graduates: Medicine                                                                        | 0      |
| Number of female graduates: Arts &amp; Humanities / Social Sciences                                         | 338    |