1.3.5 Low or lower-middle-income countries student support

Educational Opportunities and Financial Support for Local and International Students

Isra University is committed to expanding access to higher education for local and regional students from low-income backgrounds by providing financial incentives, tuition discounts, and other forms of support for both undergraduate and postgraduate students, regardless of their nationality. International students benefit from a range of university services, including transportation, health insurance, and access to the university's health center and pharmacy. The university also welcomes students from neighboring countries, including Egypt and Syria, and seeks to provide educational opportunities for refugees residing in Jordan. Through these initiatives, Isra University works to reduce financial barriers to higher education, promote inclusivity and equal opportunities, and support students from diverse socioeconomic backgrounds in pursuing their academic goals and improving their future prospects.

Number of Jordanian Student	4865
Number of other Nationalities	1241